

The Future Looks Bright.

Quay Throgmorton has earned a reputation not only for having a unique name (for Quay County, NM, where his great-grandparents homesteaded), but even more for his ability to achieve goals he sets for himself. Always looking ahead, he plans carefully for the future of his family to ensure they will be able to enjoy the best of life's simple pleasures together.

Quay is well-known in the local area for having established HRC Realty, a top performing brokerage in Hunt County. He has lived and worked in Northeast Texas for more than a decade, so he understands the market and offers the most current resources to make certain you get the best return on your investment. When you are ready to sell your home or land, Take Your "Q" from the Best — call Quay Throgmorton!

"We can attest to Quay's work ethic, integrity and ability to get the job done. Quay has been our real estate agent for several transactions over the years. We know from experience that you won't be disappointed when you put the sale of your property into his capable hands." —Will & Lori Janacek

Quay wants only the best for his own family, and he knows you feel the same about your loved ones. That's why he understands the importance of getting your property sold quickly and for the best price possible — so you can build a brighter future.

Take Your "Q" from the professional who won't settle for less than the Best!

Quay Throgmorton has a deep appreciation for the "best" things in life, but to him that doesn't mean driving a fancy car, living in a mansion and dining on fine food. For this devoted husband and father, the best things are waking up to see the smile on his son's face, dreaming about the future with his wife, helping out at his father's cattle ranch, cheering on the Cowboys and having the freedom to set goals for himself.

Some of Quay's most cherished moments are those spent with his wife, Paige, and his son, Evan. He also enjoys daily interaction with his father, one of his best friends.

When it comes to setting goals, Quay aims high. His plans include operating a cattle ranch, running a marathon and even getting involved in the political arena. He knows these things are not out of reach if he gives it his best, because he has proven himself before. He credits his father with inspiring him to pursue his dreams, maintain a strong work ethic and value the little things in life that make it so special. These are lessons he hopes to pass on to his own son, Evan.

Building a Future

Satisfied with simple pleasures but intent on large ambitions, Quay found Commerce to be the ideal location to build his life. The small-town feeling suits his personality, and he took to it well when he moved here to finish college while helping his dad establish a cattle ranch. He quickly became a "local," eventually serving two years on the Commerce City Council and establishing more than one business in the area.

When Quay sets his mind on something, he does it whole-heartedly. So it's no wonder he's achieved the best in his career as a real estate professional. Not content to work for someone else, he opened his own office and put up the "HRC Realty" sign — but not before earning a degree in Business Administration (with a minor in Real Estate), learning from others in the business and later adding his Realtor® Institute (GRI) Designation and Accredited Land Consultant (ALC) Designation. For more than a decade, he has enjoyed seeing the fruits of his labor in the huge success of HRC Realty.

Whether assisting rural property owners or helping clients sell a home in the city, Quay relates well to his clients. They value his commitment to achieving the best possible results.

Nothing Less

Quay knows what it takes to be the best; that's why he's committed to using nothing less than the latest technology and marketing strategies to help your property sell for the top price. More importantly, says Quay, "I am going to shoot it to you straight." Known for being honest and level-headed, he believes in pricing your property realistically — which is why he is confident your transaction will be fast and efficient. Looking ahead to a lifetime of helping people sell their homes and land, Quay strives to treat his clients fairly and establish trusting relationships. So when you're ready to buy or sell property, Take Your "Q" from the Best — follow the lead of Quay Throgmorton today!

"I make it a priority to obtain the best results for my clients. That means you can expect a smooth transaction: clear and honest communication, quality marketing and the best possible price."
